

Crochet Footprint

Introduction

Hi

I scoured the internet for an appliqué crochet pattern of a footprint to put on my new rainbow rag-rug. I didn't find what I was looking for, so figured I would write a quick pattern myself.

This pattern is easy. It is NOT, however, the kind of pattern you can memorize as I used quite a few different stitches to get the desired look. But if you follow the pattern you will find that it is surprisingly straightforward.

My mom used to write: "stolen from Minette Strydom" in the front of her books as a gentle reminder to whomever borrowed them that they had to be returned.

I am tempted to write: "stolen from lookatwhatimade.net" on this pattern as a less gentle reminder that this is a pattern achieved by the sweat of my brow (or fingers, as the case may be).

Make as many or as little of these footprints as you want. Sell them, gift them, throw them away...do whatever makes you happy. But please, please, please, don't copy this pattern without written permission from me. Bah, read the disclaimer if you want to be lectured some more 😊
